The property

The architecture at Allfrey House is believed to reflect Tudor Gothic influences, with a striking façade featuring a castellated parapet between two ornate gables, and a central portal with three arches topped by a lion figure. This stately country house offers a welcoming sense of arrival, with the reception hall giving access to two sitting rooms with lofty bay windows: one providing an elegant space for relaxation with fireplace focal point, and the other featuring painted ceiling beams and a log-burning stove. To the rear is a formal dining room as well as a breakfast room with French doors to the garden. An open aperture, with a step level change, links to the kitchen which is fitted with contemporary cabinetry in a rich, dark colour tone and an island unit.

A classic curved staircase rises to the bedroom accommodation which is arranged over the two upper levels. On the first floor the principal and second rooms feature faceted windows and access to smart en suite facilities. There are two further bedrooms on this level, along with a well-appointed family bathroom. Four additional rooms are at the top of the house where ancient rafters are revealed. Excellent supplemental accommodation is offered in a charming coach house dwelling which is positioned alongside the main house. The self contained Coach House provides well presented accommodation with an attractive garden to the rear and ample parking to the front. There is a sitting room, separate dining room, kitchen and utility room on the ground floor. On the first floor there are two bedrooms and a bathroom.

Outside

High level hedging fronts the roadway, with timber five-bar gates opening to an expanse of gravelled driveway which provides parking for numerous cars. Clipped evergreen shrubs create a pleasing formal display beside the house and a further gate offers a vehicular route to the rear where the detached garage outbuilding is situated. The garden and grounds at Allfrey House offer a series of green outdoor 'rooms' with trellising, walls and lengths of herbaceous border creating partition. Features of note in this beautifully-landscaped sanctuary include a parterre garden, a natural pond, an orchard and swathes of lawn interspersed by majestic and specimen trees. A paved courtyard setting adjoining the rear of the house offers opportunities for al fresco dining and sitting, whilst the coach house has a separate enclosed garden for privacy.

Location

The property is situated on the easterly fringes of the village of Cowfold, where local amenities include a convenience store, restaurant, public house and well-regarded primary school. The larger village of Henfield is easily accessible to the south with a wider range of facilities, whilst slightly further afield, the market town of
